DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claim(s) 1-11, drawn to a method for screening a test compound for the ability to activate transcription through an indirect estrogen response, classified in class 436, subclass 501, for example.
- II. Claim(s) 12, drawn to an estrogen agonist, classification dependent upon structure of agonist.
- III. Claim(s) 13-16, drawn to a method for screening a test compound for the ability to inhibit transcription through an indirect estrogen response, classified in class 435, subclass 7.1, for example.
- IV. Claim(s) 17, drawn to a compound that inhibits transcription through an indirect estrogen response, classification dependent upon structure of the compound.
- V. Claim(s) 18-22, drawn to a method for screening a test environmental compound for estrogenic activity, classified in class 435, subclass 7.2, for example.
- VI. Claim(s) 23-26, drawn to a method of inhibiting agonistic activity of an antiestrogen

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Art Unit: 1646

Although there are no provisions under the section for "Relationship of Inventions" in M.P.E.P. § 806.05 for inventive groups that are directed to different products, restriction is deemed to be proper because these products constitute patentably distinct inventions for the following reasons. Groups II and IV are directed to products that are distinct both physically and functionally, are not required one for the other, and are therefore patentably distinct. Further, the agonist of Group II has the opposite activity of the inhibitor of Group IV.

Similarly, although there are no provisions under the section for "Relationship of Inventions" in M.P.E.P. § 806.05 for inventive groups that are directed to different methods, restriction is deemed to be proper because these methods appear to constitute patentably distinct inventions for the following reasons: Groups I, III, V and VI are directed to methods that are distinct both physically and functionally, and are not required one for the other. Invention I requires measurement of transcription activation, which is not required by any of the other groups. Invention III requires measurement of nucleic acid expression, which is not required by any of the other groups. Invention III requires measurement of transcription inhibition and use of a compound known to mediate an indirect estrogen response, which is not required by any of the other groups. Invention V requires screening of environmental compounds, which is not required by any of the other groups. Finally,

Therefore, a search and examination of all three methods in one patent application would result in an undue burden, since the searches for the three methods are not co-extensive, the classification is different, and the subject matter is divergent.

Art Unit: 1646

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product can be made synthetically.

Inventions III and IV are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product can be made synthetically.

Each of the following pairs of inventions are unrelated: II/V; II/VI; IV/V; am IV/VI. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are not disclosed as capable of use together and have different modes of operation. The method in each pair does not require the product of each pair.

It is noted that the inventions are unrelated because of their recognized divergent subject matter, separate search requirements, and different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 1646

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
